

Systems and Software Process Improvement Consulting

Beyond the Appraisal

Is your enterprise ready for the challenges of today's progressively complex systems? How can you prepare for the next business opportunity that requires your enterprise to be more agile? Are geographic and organizational culture challenges creating a barrier to your staff's willingness to embrace process standardization? Are information assurance and organizational resilience requirements now driving your technology solutions?

Booz Allen: Your Next Step Toward Process Improvement

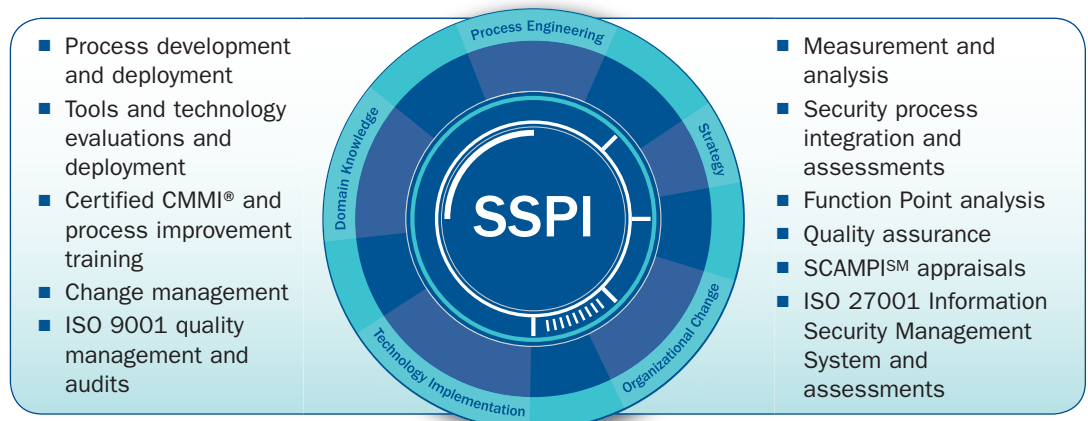

Booz Allen Hamilton, a global strategy and technology consulting firm, can help you achieve your process improvement goals—up to and beyond passing the next appraisal. If you have an ongoing process improvement program that needs refinement or are wondering where to start, we can help. We have extensive experience and expertise in achieving institutionalization of process improvements. We combine these strengths with a commitment to client service to help our clients optimize their enterprise-wide processes. Booz Allen delivers world-class consulting to our clients by merging significant technical and industry knowledge.

We are at the forefront of industry through our active partnership with the Software Engineering Institute in piloting new process improvement standards, methods, and technologies. Our leadership in international standards organizations enables us to deliver process consulting based on a broad range of recognized process improvement methodologies.

Our Process Improvement Services

There are no “cookie cutter” solutions for implementing a process improvement program. Because organizations have unique challenges and may be at different phases in their process improvement journeys, we will tailor our approach to your organization's specific needs. In selecting the tools and techniques that are right for your organization, we draw from a process consulting toolkit that includes all of the necessary components for meeting your process improvement needs.

Booz Allen's proven approach balances practical implementation with “black belt” model and standards expertise. Let us help you achieve success by moving beyond passing an appraisal to true enterprise institutionalization.
