

Nation-state threat actors and other business disruptors continue to challenge accelerating efforts to improve our organizations. Attackers understand environments have undergone significant – often not fully understood – changes. And those environments must continue to change as the businesses break down silos, integrate new tools and processes, bring in new partners, and build out the value chain of the future. The complexity of the evolving ecosystem and speed of innovation can quickly outpace the ability to truly understand and secure it, demanding a disruptive approach.

Booz Allen's DarkLabs® solutions are built by industry experts with decades of experience against nation-state-level threats in the cyber battlespace. Actionable insights, force multiplying research and training, and the defenses that secure our Nation are seamlessly integrated across the breadth of your platforms, tools, and engines, to deliver the deepest understanding of your adversaries, including which actions will impose the most cost upon them. Every solution has been built to integrate easily into any security mission.

DARKLABS RESEARCHSM enables multi-domain all terrain cyber and security research and development through sponsored or collaborative R&D engagements and access to our tradecraft, tooling, and operational capabilities. Harness available tradecraft, tooling, utilities, and full chain capability to “expedite operational”.

DARKLABS DETECTTM levels you above nation-state threats with protections that expose adversary weaknesses and defend against them in any platformTM, any environment.

DARKLABS ATTACKSM amplifies your staff and strategy. Upskill your team with customizable real-world APT malware modules and side-by-side training from embedded defenders.

DARKLABS PROTECTSM accelerates the pathway to a resilient attack surface with proven blueprints and playbooks tested in our Nation's most critical missions.
